

Full Name:.....

N° PV:.....

SAMPLE CORRECTION

+2pts → Attendance + activities

Exercise N01

Choosing a topic is the starting point of any legal research. The student must choose a researchable topic with enough sources and references. The topic should be practically important, and should have a real impact on the legal field. After the topic selection, the next step is formulating the research problem. The research problem is the core question or central issue that the research seeks to answer. This could be a law, conflicting court decisions or a legal gap that requires finding solutions.

Read carefully the text, then answer the following question according to the text

1-What is the starting point of any legal research?

The starting point of any legal research is choosing a topic. The student must select a researchable and important topic related to the legal field. 0.2, 1 pt

2- What are the essential characteristics of a good research topic in legal research?

A good research topic must be researchable, supported by enough sources and references, practically important, and have a real impact on the legal field. 0.2, 1 pt

3- Explain what a "research problem" is in legal research. Give three examples of what may constitute a research problem.

A research problem is the core question or central issue that the research seeks to answer. It could be:
- A law that creates legal difficulties. 0.3 pts
- A conflicting court decisions.
- A legal gap that requires finding solutions.

Exercise N02: Choose the right answer for the following questions

1- What is the main characteristic of the Analytical Plan in legal research?

☐

A) It divides the subject into two opposing theses (thesis and antithesis)

☐

B) It organizes the research around two conceptual themes

☒

0.1 pt

C) It describes a legal regime, institution or procedural mechanism by dividing it into static and dynamic aspects

2- The Thematic Plan in structuring a legal research paper is characterized by:

- A) A chronological division based on a major legal event ☐
- B) Organizing the paper around two conceptual themes that examine different facets of a central thesis ☒ 01 pts
- C) A detailed description of static and dynamic aspects of a legal institution. ☐

3- What best describes the Chronological-Analytical Plan?

- A) It focuses on two major conceptual themes ☐
- B) It divides the analysis into two distinct temporal periods separated by a pivotal event or landmark ruling ☒ 01 pts
- C) It presents a legal mechanism through its static and dynamic dimensions ☐

4- The Dialectical Plan is mainly used when the researcher:

- A) Wants to analyze the evolution of a legal institution over time ☐
- B) Seeks to describe the static and dynamic aspects of a legal regime ☐
- C) Engages directly with a debated concept or affirmation structured as a thesis and antithesis ☒ 01 pts

Exercise N03: answer to the following question by putting F for false or T for true next to each one.

- 1- The foundation of any research paper happens long before writing starts. It involves a change in how you think about research moving from general ideas about justice to a more objective scientific approach. ☒ 01 pts
- 2- research in any field including law and politics is simply about systematically examining issues, solving ordinary problems and finding general cumin answers to the knowledge. ☒ 01 pts
- 3- With the research question defined and hypotheses constructed the next step is data collection and source evaluation. ☒ 01 pts
- 4- In Algeria the Supreme Court decisions are final and authoritative ensuring application of laws across the country, analysing Supreme Court decisions helps researchers understand how abstract laws are applied to disputes. ☒ 01 pts
- 5- Beyond sources researchers are not required to gather secondary sources, including scholarly articles, law books and legal encyclopaedias. ☒ 01 pts
- 6- . The process of note-taking and data synthesis must be highly organized with every fact recorded meticulously. ☒ 01 pts